ENGLISH AS A MEDIUM OF INSTRUCTION

(ENKELTFAG 5 ECTS)

Modulet English as a Medium of Instruction henvender til gymnasielærere, som underviser på engelsk i deres fagområde i gymnasieskolen, fx økonomi, marketing el.lign. På modulet opnår deltagerne træning i engelsk grammatik, syntaks, ordforråd og udtale. Desuden trænes man i at præsentere sit fag og sit stof på engelsk med særligt fokus på formidlingsaspektet.

CERTIFICERING I UNDERVISNING PÅ ENGELSK

Ved den afsluttende prøve er der mulighed for at opnå certificering ud fra et sæt af kriterier udarbejdet af Europarådet inden for rammerne af CEFR (Common European Framework of References for Languages). I tilfælde af certificering udstedes et bevis herfor til deltageren.

STUDIEORDNING

Modulet udbydes under ordningen "Heltid på deltid". Modulet er et enkeltfag fra bacheloruddannelsen i Engelsk som centralt fag (modulet "Mundtlig sprogfærdighed", § 22 i studieordningen).

MODULETS INDHOLD

Kurset præsenteres her på engelsk af underviseren:

This 5 ECTS module sets out to equip you with the skills in spoken English that are needed if you are to teach in English – and to certify that you have those skills at the second highest (C1) level on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).

Using English as a medium of instruction (EMI) requires advanced fluency in the vocabulary, structures and syntax of English, as well as awareness and flexibility in combining the terminology and complexity of your academic discipline with more accessible everyday English that can communicate and 'unpack' those ideas for a non-expert audience whose native language is not English.

There is more to EMI than grammar and vocabulary, however. Pronunciation is equally important, as are interactive fluency and presentation skills that allow for the potential difficulties faced by your students when it comes to learning in a foreign language.

Face-to-face seminarerne foregår på Aalborg Universitet, Kroghstræde 3, 9220 Aalborg Øst. Nærmere oplysninger om lokale følger.

The module includes:

1. Accelerated English: This module consists of 8 sessions. Each session involves a formal element focused on structures, grammar and vocabulary and, in smaller groups, a less formally structured discussion of texts prepared at home. The preparation for the first part of each session is based on an assigned text book containing numerous exercises and answers to allow the 'self-study' that enables participation in class exercises and follow-up questions in part 1 of each session. For part 2, participants prepare individually assigned texts which they summarise for the group – as well as answering any questions that might arise. As the texts are thematically grouped, this leads to a discussion of the overall theme. The instructor moves from group to group offering feedback on language issues and interactional strategies.
2. Presenting in English: This module involves the self-study of a series of short films and links provided online. Subsequently, each participant prepares a 15 minute presentation of a central topic from his or her discipline, presents it in accessible terms in a small workshop session for five other participants and the instructor, and then receives detailed feedback from both group and instructor. Both preparation and feedback are based on the criteria presented online.
3. Pronunciation: This is an intensive introduction to basic and advanced issues in English pronunciation – with a series of practical exercises. After work on the basic sounds of English, the focus changes to stress and intonation patterns. As well as the presentations and in-class exercises, participants are introduced to techniques and online resources that they can use to continue improving their English pronunciation.
